Border Realities

Geopolitics of the European Union: Transformation of EU's External Borders in the Context of Changing Global Order

26 October 2022, 4.00-5.30 PM

The ongoing changes in the structure of the global order have resulted, especially recently, in border processes in Europe taking place in a new international environment. Immigration crises resulted in border restrictions on many European borders. Re-bordering tendencies continued together with the Covid-19 pandemic. Surprisingly the war in Ukraine left the borders open for the refugees in the region but the conflict, at the same time, revised dominant approaches to the border dynamics in international relations in Europe. The lecture aims at debating new approach to studying border dynamics in Europe, revisiting the traditional approaches of international relations studies and combining them with (until-)recently dominating border studies perspective(s).

Prof. Dr. Hab. Jarosław Jańczak - political scientist, Europeanist, researcher of borders. His academic interests focus around the themes of borders and border areas within the context of European integration processes. In particular, they cover the phenomena of debordering and rebordering, cross-border governance, European integration on the micro-scale, external borders of the EU as well as cross-border cooperation in Europe.

The online lecture series is open to the public and is aimed at researchers, students, and the interested public.
